Name: Date:

COLUMBIAN EXCHANGE GOODS

Source: Goldberg and Clark DuPré, Brief Review in Global History and Geography, Prentice Hall, 2002 (adapted)

Using the graphic above answer the following questions:

1. What do historians mean when they say the "Old World" and the "New World"?

2. Do you think the Columbian exchange was truly an exchange of goods, or was it more of a situation in which Europeans took goods from the New World and eventually European goods ended up in the New World? Explain.

3. In general what types of "goods" do you see coming from the "Old World" that the "New World" did not have at this time?

4. In general what types of "goods" do you see coming from the "New World" that the "Old World" did not have at this time?

5. What goods do you see between the "New World" and the "Old World" that could be combined to create a new type of food?

6. Name one advantage and one disadvantage of the Columbian exchange.